NOTICE TO RESPONDENT

A petition for protection alleges that you have committed abuse. Based on the petition and on any testimony provided at the initial hearing, the court has issued this Temporary Protective Order.

Violation of this order may be a state and/or federal crime or contempt of court, or both, and result in imprisonment or fine or both. This order may be enforced by another state or jurisdiction, which may impose additional or different penalties for the violation.

In order to respond to the allegation that abuse occurred, you must appear in court at the Final Protective Order hearing provided for in this order. If at the hearing the court finds by a preponderance of the evidence that you committed the alleged abuse, the court will issue a Final Protective Order against you, even if you fail to appear. The court may order any or all of the following:

- ⊙ that you not abuse, threaten to abuse, contact, attempt to contact, harass, and/or enter the residence of someone;
- ⊙ that you stay away from someone's workplace, school, temporary residence, home, or child care provider;
- ⊙ use and possession of your home, and/or jointly owned vehicle;
- ⊙ an award of temporary custody and/or visitation of a child;
- ⊙ an award of Emergency Family Maintenance;
- ⊙ that you surrender all firearm(s) to a law enforcement agency and refrain from possession of any firearm for the duration of the order;
- ⊙ that you pay filing fees and costs;
- ⊙ an award of temporary possession of a pet;
- ⊙ that you and/or the person(s) eligible for relief participate in counseling and/or a domestic violence program;
- ⊙ any other relief that the judge determines is necessary to protect a person eligible for relief from abuse.

Duration of the Final Protective Order:

Generally, a Final Protective Order may be in effect for as long as one (1) year. Additionally:

The court for good cause may extend the term of the Final Protective Order for an additional six (6) months after a further hearing.

A Final Protective Order may be granted for a period not to exceed two (2) years, if a judge finds the respondent has committed a subsequent act of abuse against a person eligible for relief within one (1) year after the date that a prior Final Protective Order issued against the same respondent on behalf of the same person eligible for relief expires or by consent of the respondent within one (1) year after the date that a prior Final Protective Order issued against the same respondent on behalf of the same person eligible for relief expires, and the prior Final Protective Order was issued for a period of at least six (6) months.

- ⊙ The court shall issue a Permanent Protective Order if:
 - ⊙ requested by the person eligible for relief against an individual who was the respondent in a previously issued Interim, Temporary, or Final Protective Order; AND
 - ⊙ the respondent was convicted and sentenced to serve a term of imprisonment of at least five (5) years and served at least 12 months of the sentence for:

- ☐ the act of abuse that led to the issuance of the Interim, Temporary, or Final Protective Order; OR
- ☐ committing an act of abuse against the person eligible for relief during the term of the Interim, Temporary, or Final Protective Order.

If you fail to appear in court and a Final Protective Order is issued, you may be served by first-class mail at your last known address with the Final Protective Order and all other notices concerning the Final Protective Order. The Final Protective order will be valid and enforceable upon mailing. You must notify the court in writing of any change of address.

State law requires the respondent to surrender all firearms to a law enforcement agency if a Final Protective Order is issued.

NOTICE TO ALL PARTIES

Hearing dates and places are subject to change, and you should call the court clerk's office at 301-733-8660 to be sure you know when your hearing(s) will occur. You are responsible for knowing when and where hearings will occur.

Each party may be represented by an attorney. You are not required to have an attorney. At the Final Protective Order hearing, the petitioner will be required to prove the alleged facts by a preponderance of the evidence, whether or not you are represented by an attorney. The rules of evidence apply to your hearing, whether or not you are represented by an attorney. If you are a party and cannot afford a private attorney, there are agencies that may be able to help you.

At the Final Protective Order hearing, the court may order the respondent to pay Emergency Family Maintenance and may enter an immediate and continuing withholding order for that purpose. If Emergency Family Maintenance is requested, both parties should complete a Financial Statement (CC-DC-DV-004) before the Protective Order hearing and bring it to court. You should also bring documents (such as pay stubs, copy of your lease, bills, etc.) to support the figures you supply.

To request a foreign language interpreter or a reasonable accommodation under the Americans with Disabilities Act, please contact the court immediately.

Possession and use of cell phones and other electronic devices may be limited or prohibited in designated areas of the court facility.
